Whistleblower Protection Act

Whistleblower Protection Laws

- The Whistleblower Protection Act prohibits Federal agencies from retaliating against employees, former employees, or applicants for employment for whistle blowing. Whistleblower reprisal refers to the actual taking, failure to take, or threatened taking of a personnel action in retaliation for a protected disclosure of information that is reasonably believed to evidence:
 - violations of law, rule or regulation;
 - gross mismanagement;
 - gross waste of funds;
 - an abuse of authority;
 - a substantial and specific danger to public health or safety.

Whistleblower Protection Laws

- Generally, a protected disclosure can be to anyone in a position to correct the alleged wrong doing, except the wrongdoer. However, a disclosure is not protected, where the disclosure is specifically prohibited by law or is specifically required by Executive Order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or the conduct of foreign affairs, unless it is disclosed to the office of Special Counsel or the Inspector General.
- The Whistleblower Protection Act does not require an employee to go through his or her Chain of Command.

Whistleblower Protection Laws

- Retaliation against an employee or applicant for making a protected disclosure is prohibited by 5 U.S.C. 2302(b)(8).
- To report whistleblower retaliation, you may file a written complaint (Form OSC-11) with the U.S. Office of Special Counsel at 1730 M Street NW., Suite 218, Washington, DC 20036-4505 or online through the OSC Web site:
<http://www.osc.gov>.

Office of Special Counsel Role in Whistleblower Protection

- The Office of Special Counsel (OSC) provides a secure channel through which current and former federal employees and applicants may make confidential disclosures.
- OSC evaluates the disclosures to determine whether there is a substantial likelihood that one of the conditions has been disclosed.
- If such a determination is made, OSC has the authority to require the head of the agency to investigate the matter.

- To make a disclosure contact:

12. Take or fail to take a personnel action, if taking or failing to take action would violate any law, rule or regulation implementing or directly concerning merit system principles at 5 U.S.C. § 2301.

Freedom from Reprisal

Applicable Regulations

No person shall be subjected to retaliation for opposing any practice made unlawful by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Equal Pay Act, or the Rehabilitation Act, or for participating in any stage of the administrative or judicial proceedings under those statutes.

- 29 CFR §1614.101(b)

Elements of Reprisal Claim

- First Element:
 - Individual expressed opposition to discriminatory practice; or,
 - Individual participated in the discrimination complaint process
- Second Element:
 - Agency (Management) aware of protected activity.
 - The individual who the complainant alleges reprised against them must have knowledge of their protected activity.
- Third Element:
 - Agency must have taken an adverse action after the complainant engaged in the protected activity
 - Examples of Adverse Action: Denial of promotion, award, position; disciplinary action; negative evaluation or, harassment.
- Fourth Element:
 - Complainant must demonstrate a “Causal Connection” between the adverse action and the protected activity.

Elements of Proof for Whistleblower Reprisal

- To establish whistleblower reprisal, an employee must show:
 - Element One – A protected disclosure of information he or she reasonably believes to evidence: a violation of law, rule or regulation; gross mismanagement; a gross waste of funds; an abuse of authority; or a substantial and specific damage to public health and safety
 - Element Two – A personnel action was taken, not taken or threatened.
 - Element Three – Those responsible for reprisal have actual or constructive knowledge of the protected disclosure
 - Element Four – The protected disclosure was a contributing factor in the personnel action.

Protected Activity: Opposition to Discriminatory Practice

- Opposition to a discriminatory practice .
 - The anti-retaliation provisions make it unlawful to discriminate against an individual because s/he has opposed any practice made unlawful by Title VII, the ADEA, the EPA, or the Rehab Act.
 - A complaint amounts to protected opposition only if the individual explicitly or implicitly communicates a belief that the practice constitutes unlawful employment discrimination.
 - The opposition clause does not require the person be correct in their belief that the agency's employment practice they opposed actually violated Title VII, the ADEA, the EPA, and/or the Rehab Act.
 - The opposition clause protects the individual provided that they had a good faith and reasonable belief that a violation of the EEO statutes had or was occurring.

Protected Activity: Participation in the EEO Process

- Participating in the EEO process.
 - Title VII, the ADEA, the EPA, and the Rehab Act make it unlawful to discriminate against any individual because s/he has filed a complaint, testified, assisted, or participated in any manner in an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or litigation under any of the anti-discrimination statutes.
 - While the opposition clause applies only to those who protest practices that they reasonably and in good faith believe are unlawful, the participation clause applies to all individuals who participate in the EEO complaints process.
 - An agency can be found liable for retaliating against an individual for filing an EEO complaint regardless of the merits or reasonableness of the original complaint.

Retaliation for Engaging in Protected Activity

- A Federal agency may not retaliate against an employee or applicant because that individual exercises his or her rights under any of the Federal anti-discrimination or whistleblower protections laws listed above.
- If you believe that you are the victim of retaliation for engaging in protected activity, you must follow, as appropriate, the procedures described in the anti-discrimination law and whistleblower protection law sections or, if applicable, the administrative or negotiated grievance procedures in order to pursue any legal remedy.

Disciplinary Actions

- Under the existing laws, each agency retains the right, where appropriate, to discipline a Federal employee who has engaged in discriminatory or retaliatory conduct, up to and including removal.
- If OSC has initiated an investigation under 5 U.S.C. 1214, however, according to 5 U.S.C. 1214(f), agencies must seek approval from the Special Counsel to discipline employees for, among other activities, engaging in prohibited retaliation.
- Nothing in the No FEAR Act alters existing laws or permits an agency to take unfounded disciplinary action against a Federal employee or to violate the procedural rights of a Federal employee who has been accused of discrimination.
