Station tests evac during NEO exercise

Feb. 10-12 Station residents conducted a Noncombatant Evacuation Operation exercise here.

The exercise was conducted to test and train station personnel to respond to an unforeseen NEO contingency in which area civilians and family members might be forced to evacuate.

At left, volunteering community members walk through various stations set up at the harbor facility during the exercise.

Iwakuni units depart Thailand as Cobra Gold 2010 ends

Feb. 20 Exercise Cobra Gold 2010, a multi-lateral exercise demonstrating joint and multinational capabilities and improving interoperability between the U.S. and Thailand, came to a close with the main body of Marines departing Thailand Feb. 20.

Marines and sailors were still conducting training until their final departure.

Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 115, Marine Aircraft Group 12, Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron 12 and Marine All-Weather Fighter Attack Squadron 242 all participated in the 10-day exercise with units from other bases around the world.

Exercise Cobra Gold 2010 provided the VMFA(AW)-242 and VMFA-115 pilots an opportunity to put their training to the test against the Thai Royal Air Force's F-16s as well as other aircraft.

Total Shield 2010 teaches lessons, trains station

Feb. 25

Station military personnel and members of the 46th Regiment, 13th Brigade of the Japan Ground Self-Defense Force from Camp Kaitaichi, brought the weeklong exercises Total Shield and Active Shield 2010 to a close here Feb. 25.

Total Shield was meant to test the station's ability to defend itself against terrorist attacks while Active Shield improved on the interoperability of U.S. and Japanese forces here.

Exercise Total Shield was planned out by senior station personnel who operated scenarios out of a room referred to as white cell. White cell tested the station's defense through active shooters, suspicious vessel probing, sabotage of mission-essential areas, waterborne rocket attacks and many other scenarios.

Seabees celebrate 68 years of history

March 5 Seabees, Marines, sailors and guests all attended the 68th Seabee Ball and the 143rd anniversary of the Civil Engineer Corps at the Club Iwakuni ballroom here.

The evening event commemorated the service of the station's civil engineers and men of the construction battalions.

After the the cake-cutting ceremony, it was nothing but fun and games for the rest of the night.

At right, the youngest and oldest Seabees are presented with plaques by the Seabee commanding officer and the guest at the 2010 Seabee Ball.

Marines learn Israeli fighting techniques

March 22 - April 2

A total of 15 Marines aboard the station were afforded the opportunity to take part in a two-week Israeli Krav Maga course at the IronWorks Gym here.

The focus of the course was on actual combat situations and was developed for the military for hand-to-hand and close quarters combat.

Key Resolve/Foal Eagle 2010 kicks off

March 8 Units from here and around the world kicked off the annual Key Resolve/Foal Eagle 2010 exercises in the South Korean peninsula.

Marine Aircraft Group 12, Marine All Weather Fighter Attack Squadrons 242 and 121, Marine Wing Support Squadron 171, Combat Logistics Company 36, Strike Fighter Squadron 94 and Marine Attack Squadron 311 service members were involved in the exercises.

Key Resolve, considered one of the largest computer-generated exercises in the world, exercised the decision-making skills of the senior leaders involved.

Once the decision-making exercises conducted through Key Resolve finished, Exercise Foal Eagle began.

Foal Eagle exercised the defensive field and air capabilities of participating service members in the defense of South Korea.

Station radio network gets total overhaul

April 3 The station's radio system was upgraded with a digital trunking system and a command and control system.

The upgrade was comparable to going from a VCR to a Blu-Ray player.

Most importantly, the new radio system has greatly increased radio communication reliability.

Bilateral exercise builds U.S.-ROK skills

April 13 YECHON AIR BASE, Republic of Korea – Marines and the Republic of Korea Air Force faced an improvised explosive device scenario during exercise Foal Eagle here.

The Marines and ROK airmen gained control of the area and cared for any injured.

The ROK airmen played an important role in the training. They worked hand-in-hand with the Marines to achieve the mission, learning to communicate and work together as a team.

2010 Friendship Day welcomes aboard 265,000

May 5 Just as the sun rose, a mass of Japanese people flooded the air station to secure seats for the 38th annual Friendship Day air show here.

2010's Friendship Day garnered a crowd of approximately 265,000. The thousands of people in attendance had a chance to witness a variety of aeronautic performances including a skydiving duo in "squirrel suits."

There were 24 static displays offering attendees a chance to get up close with the aircraft.

The air show's fair grounds boasted a variety of American and Japanese cuisine, along with a lineup of 70 classic cars.

This year's Friendship Day was the last one held on the old runway before the new airfield was officially opened for use.

At right, an AV-8B Harrier demonstrates its vertical/short takeoff and landing maneuvers in front of thousands during the air show.

American, Japanese officials commission new runway, open officially for use

May 29 American and Japanese officials gathered at the new runway here to officially open it to flight operations in a commissioning ceremony.

The historic ceremony marked the conclusion of the $2.6 billion, 13-year construction effort, which was designed to enhance the safety of flight operations and to decrease aircraft noise in the communities surrounding the air station.

Below, American and Japanese officials cut the ceremonial ribbon, officially opening the new flight line here to flight operations during the commissioning ceremony.

Station IPAC scores 99.31 in MCAAT

May 17 - 18 The station's Installation Personnel Administration Center here passed the Marine Corps Administrative Analysis Team inspection with a near perfect score of 99.31.

The score is a record high for all IPACs and places the station's IPAC as the best and most mission capable IPAC team in the Marine Corps.

MCAAT visits and inspects the IPAC shops in the Marine Corps, approximately every two years, searching out discrepancies in paper work and evaluating how well the administrative team functions.

Students build teamwork at leadership retreat

May 22 Approximately 100 Matthew C. Perry students participated in a leadership retreat at Hachagamine Park.

The Youth and Teen Center, adolescent substance abuse counselor and Marine Memorial Chapel provided this opportunity to teens from 7th through 12th grade.

Marines and sailors from Marine Wing Support Squadron 171 and Combat Logistics Company 36 also volunteered for the event to act as mentors and to make sure safety precautions were taken.

MWSS-171 constructs schoolhouse in Bangladesh

July 7 Approximately 40 Marine Wing Support Squadron 171 combat engineers will be deployed to Bangladesh in support of the Bangladesh Interoperability Exercise through the Engineering Civic Action Program.

On average, Marines worked up to 20-hour days to complete the project on time.

MWSS-171 Marines worked hand in hand with the Bangladesh Army for approximately 20 days to construct a schoolhouse.

CLC-36 lays down hot lead during Dragon Fire

July 22 Approximately 65 Marines with Combat Logistics Company 36 returned here from Combined Arms Training Center Camp Fuji, Japan, upon completion of Exercise Dragon Fire 2010.

Exercise Dragon Fire, a 10-day exercise designed to refamiliarize Marines with weapon systems, convoy operations, military operations in urban terrain, land navigation and patrolling, took place at the base of Japan's largest and most prominent mountain, Mount Fuji.

The purpose of the exercise was to increase the unit's ability to function in a combat environment, build esprit de corps and facilitate engaged small-unit leadership.

Marines practiced throwing M-67 fragmentation hand grenades and fired the M-16A2 service rifle, vehicle-mounted M-2 .50 caliber machine gun, M-203 grenade launcher, M-249 squad automatic weapon, and M-240G medium machine gun.

More than 44,700 rounds were fired during the exercise.

The Marines also practiced patrolling. Squads patrolled from the grenade range to the armory of Camp Fuji, performing several maneuvers such as patrol formations and contact responses.

MALS-12 aids town distressed by destructive flooding

July 27 Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron 12 donated more than 1,000 bottles of water and relief supplies to the town of Shobara, Japan, after the town was recently hit with a flood.

The flood injured several people, destroyed 10 houses, severely damaged 24, and forced more than 90 people to evacuate the area. Additionally, much of the town's water system was blown away, which left the people without clean drinking water, and several roadways were destroyed.

MALS-12 responded to the distressed town in less than one week.

U.S., ROK forces flex skills during Invincible Spirit

July 29 Exercise Invincible Spirit came to ends for Marine Corps Air Station Iwakuni, Japan, units as the last two F/A-18 Hornets flew out of Pohang Air Base, Republic of Korea.

Exercise Invincible Spirit was a joint combined exercise in which the Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and Republic of Korea forces worked together to demonstrate solidarity and a commitment to work together.

Marines from Marine Aircraft Group 12, Marine Wing Support Squadron 171 and 172, Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron 12, Marine Air Control Squadron 4, Marine Aerial Refueler Transport Squadron 152, Marine All-Weather Fighter Attack Squadron 242 and Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 542

CPL. JOSEPH MARIANELLI

HM-14 visits to conduct vertical replenishment training

July 8 Sailors with Helicopter Mine Countermeasures Squadron 14 Detachment 1 out of Pohang, Korea, visited the station to conduct external vertical replenishment training.

HM-14 is homeported at Naval Station Norfolk, Va., and its mission is to stand ready to deploy anywhere in the world within 72 hours to provide airborne mine countermeasures and vertical onboard delivery support, as well as humanitarian and disaster relief.

Vertical replenishment is used to transport equipment or supplies to seaborne vessels or remote locations inaccessible by any other means.

Funny photo of the week

After their poorly planned debut album "I Want Candy" debuted and was roundly rejected by critics as the worst collaboration of all-time, rivaling Yoko Ono's involvement with The Beatles, Bananaman and Lil Jon agreed they should never work together again. While a minor setback in Lil Jon's career, Bananaman never recovered and was last seen panning for change and turning brown. Think you can write a better caption or have your own funny photo to submit? Submit your ideas or photos to the Public Affairs Office by e-mailing them to iwakuni.pao@usmc.mil, calling 253-5551 or submitting your idea in person at the office in Building 1 Room 216. Entries will be judged by the Iwakuni Approach Staff and the top selection will run in the next edition of the Iwakuni Approach.

MAG-12 NCOs get MCT refresher

Nov. 2 Marine Aircraft Group 12 noncommissioned officers attended a weapons familiarization class at the Indoor Small Arms Range here to get a refresher on Marine rifleman fundamentals. After the informal periods of instruction, the Marines went to the Indoor Simulated Marksmanship Trainer to practice weapon identification, firing drills and combat tactics. At right, Cpl. Shaquan Jackson, Marine Aircraft Group 12 ground safety manager, prepares to fire an Indoor Simulated Marksmanship Trainer AT4 rocket launcher during the weapons familiarization class.

JASDF cadets get birds-eye view of Marine Corps aviation

Nov. 4 Nine Japan Air Self-Defense Force personnel from the 12th Flying Training Wing, Hofu North Air Base, Yamaguchi Prefecture, along with 61 aviation cadets visited the air station to take an organized tour of the station. The tour included a trip to the top of the new air traffic control tower, a visit to the Marine All-Weather Fighter Attack Squadron 224 hangar to view their static display, a test flight in the Tactical Operations Flight Trainer, and finally a walk through of the Japan Maritime Self-Defense Force section of the station.

Marines celebrate 235 years of honor, courage, commitment

Nov. 10 Since 1921, when Gen. John A. Lejeune issued Marine Corps Order No. 47 summarizing the history, mission and tradition of the Corps, Marines all over the world have celebrated the birth of the Marine Corps either on or around Nov. 10. "Ten November represents the start of our Corps, a beginning of a belief in oneself, in each other and in a commitment to a fledgling nation that had to defeat the greatest political, economic and military power of its age to begin an experiment in government and in the fundamental rights of man," said Brig. Gen. Mark A. Brilakis, deputy commanding general of III Marine Expeditionary Force and guest speaker for one of the Marine Corps Birthday Balls. In celebration of the 235th Marine Corps Birthday, station members here celebrated the birthday over the course of three days and three separate balls. In his first birthday message since becoming the Commandant of the Marine Corps Oct. 22, Gen. James F. Amos paid tribute to the Marines of the Korean War and recognized their contributions to our enduring legacy. "It is crucial to celebrate our illustrious history and to keep our traditions alive," said Sgt. Maj. Gonzalo A. Vasquez, guest speaker for one of the balls. ## HE operators get unexpected training

Nov. 19 Heavy equipment operators completed some much needed training during a five-week-long exercise in a remote location here in Iwakuni. HE operators here typically can't train easily because training pits are not on station. The Marines weren't put on time constraints for the training evolution, but the exercises changed every week. Along with perfecting their skill trade, Marines took this rare opportunity to gain licenses on other equipment, such as a compacter, multi-train loader or a bobcat and a grater. The culminating event for the training exercise was the building of a combat outpost. At right, Pfc. Ryan C. Caspary, a Marine Wing Support Squadron 171 heavy equipment operator, operates a grater to level out some ground during an exercise at a temporary dig site here.

Dec. 20

More than 1,000 runners participate in annual Jingle Bell Jog. After the race, participants consumed about one ton of cookies, sandwiches and beverages

MAG-12 maestros Wolmi-Do Fury

Dec. 1-4 Wolmi-Do Fury, a four-day exercise, prepared service members for real-world wartime situations.

The annual exercise included support from Marine Aircraft Group 12, Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron 12 and Marine All-Weather Fighter Attack Squadrons 224 and 225.

Wolmi-Do Fury is a MAG-12 level exercise, which integrates other flying squadrons deployed to Iwakuni.

While the flying squadrons conducted operations and missions, MAG-12 Headquarters and Operations supervised and oversaw everything.

Annual motorcycle rally revs up Toys for Tots campaign

Dec. 5 More than 100 motorcycles hit the air station's streets for the 8th annual Toys for Tots Motorcycle Rally.

The rally was coordinated by the Iwakuni Motorcycle Club and Single Marine Program to kick off the Marine Corps' Toys for Tots campaign.

The program collects new, unwrapped toys each year and distributes the gifts to needy children in the community.

Japanese and American bikers decked out in leather jackets and vests, chaps, bandanas and

Keen Sword marks 50 years of U.S.-Japan cooperation

Dec. 10 The Marines of Marine All-Weather Fighter Attack Squadron 242 wrapped up their participation in Keen Sword, which ran Dec. 3-10.

Keen Sword was a training exercise between Japan and the U.S. with the overall goal of integrating operations of the different services and governments that participated.

Keen Sword furthered the resiliency of the Japanese defense forces and the US military through the cooperation of both nations.

Harbor Operations gets new boat

Dec. 20 The U.S. Navy recently showcased its newest asset in its mission to safeguard the harbor.

The Harbor Patrol Boat was officially unveiled and christened here Dec. 20 as dignitaries of the US Navy, Marine Corps and Japanese Coast Guard looked on.

The Harbor Patrol Boat is a unique, one-of-a-kind vessel, which will be used to patrol the station's waters and make sure the harbor stays secure.

It outclasses many boats of similar size.

The impact of the HPB-1 will bring a substantial increase of security to the table in comparison to other vessels that are used by harbor operations.

At left, Port Harbor Boat 1 glides through the water on its dual diesel engines during an exhibition of the new vessels capabilities.
